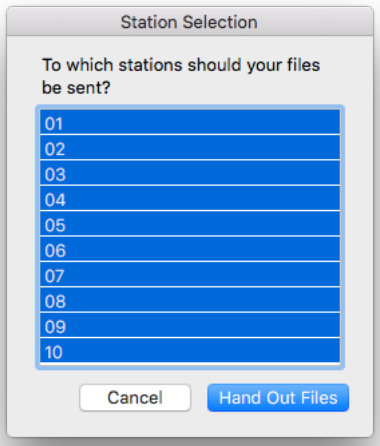
Wormhole, a file distributor for networked computers

by Dave Linnenbank

HOW IT WORKS: Any combination of files and folders dropped onto the Wormhole icon offers a list of known stations where the files can be copied to.

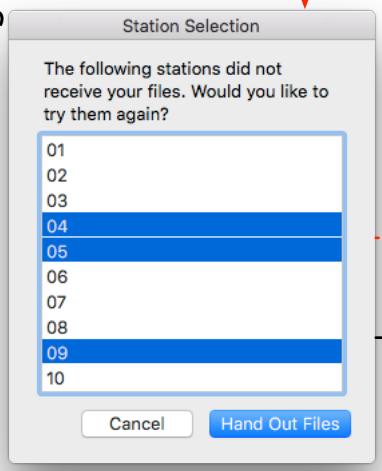
Station Selection Dialog



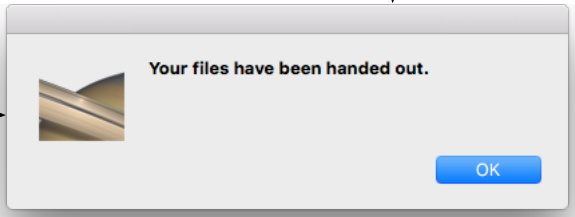
By default, all stations are selected. Once you choose to Hand Out Files, each station is successively connected to, and your files are transmitted to that machine's Desktop folder.

If some selected stations do not receive your files...

Missed Stations Dialog



This repeats while selected stations fail to receive your files.

If all selected stations receive your files...


Success!
